Hello,

I take this opportunity to introduce myself as Krishna Mohan BR, a seasoned tech-savvy, design professional who likes to use my diversified skill sets to find new solutions to conventional problems. A collaborative non-conformist, I love working with others to achieve a shared vision, while continuing to build synergies, cultivate original ideas and outside-the-box solutions.

My professional journey started off as a Design professional from my Graduation in Interior Architecture and Design in the year 2006 and then as a Principal Design consultant in the year 2010 post my Master's in Experience Design from the world renowned design school, National Institute of Design (NID), India. Since then, I have been instrumental in delivering solutions in the realm of Experience Design (XD) across industries by managing various stakeholders to C-level personnels or business owners and growing a niche team of interdisciplinary workforce by setting up a design studio to gather and meet the demands of large, complex and changing needs of the global business landscape. With this amazing experience of close to a decade, I have honed my skill sets as a thought partner, design leadership, project management including both traditional and agile work methodologies towards building solutions that scale across technology, digital, product, visual, communication, marketing and environment design disciplines.

With a day in life of meeting and discussing the art of possibilities with various business owners, I happen to stumble upon the opportunity of building a Digital Design Practice within a niche business vertical of a large corporate organisation - Boston Consulting Group. Since then I am being part of BCG Design Studios, growing and managing the business along with a team of UX, UI, Content and Strategic designers in collaboration with PM's, Developers, Technology Architects and various other business stakeholders to deliver solutions across the globe.

With a journey so far in the design industry along with diversified experiences from a true blue designer to a pragmatic entrepreneur, I foresee myself to thrive and focus on being a much better design leader and step up in helping global businesses and large organizations, to stay radical and relevant within their customers mind in today's connected world.

Warmly,
